Josh Keller is a New Orleans native and Partner in the firm's Civil Litigation section. His practice focuses mainly on personal injury defense and products liability matters. Josh primarily defends high-net-worth individuals through private client group insurers and publicly traded companies through Commercial General Liability (CGL) insurers. Most of the cases he defends involve multi-million-dollar claims.

Josh handles matters involving auto accidents, premises liability, insurance coverage disputes, multi-district litigation, defamation, and business interruption claims. He defends individuals, corporations, non-profits, excess and Underinsured Motorist (UM) insurers, and manufacturers on various products including fall protection systems, flexible intermediate bulk containers, steel transportation tanks, plastic utensils, and sports bottles. Josh has been first chair trial counsel in jury trials in Orleans Parish, Jefferson Parish, and St. Tammany Parish and second chair trial counsel in East Baton Rouge Parish.

Josh is married with three children and devotes his leisure time to reading, acting as a chauffeur for his kids on the weekends, playing golf, and fishing.
